"A Family Affair."

By HUGH CONWAY, Author of "Called Back," "Dark Days," Etc., Etc.

"A FAMILY AFFAIR" is the latest story by this celebrated author. It is now running in Mac-Millan's London Magazine, and will be completed in the number for September, 18%. It will not be published in book form in England or America before the last of July next. Hence we are able to present it to our readers

Two Months in Advance of its Publication in Book Form.

This is unquestionably Hugh Conway's greates t story. His two previous novels, "Called Back" and "Dark Days," have been the most popular stories ever printed, with the exception only of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." No novel written by Dickens attained so large a sale in the same length of time as either of these two stories by Hugh Con-way. The new story, "A Family Affair," though only a little more than half completed as a serial, has made a most profound sensation in England. The right to print it in newspaper form alone has been sold to a small syndicate of newspapers in England for £10,000. This choice gem of fiction will begin in the SUNDAY SENTINEL OF MAY 31, and without depriving our readers of a single line of the usual sixteen-page Sunday Sentinel. It will appear on an additional and separate supplement. Let everybody remember to order the Sunday Sentinel of May 31 in time, so as to begin with the first chapter of this charming story.

"A FAMILY AFFAIR."

Hugh Conway, recently deceased in Italy, and well known as an author of exceptionally bright and intelligent parts. before his death an absorbing story entitled "A Family Affair." He prepared it for an English periodical, through which it is now appearing as a serial. We propose to begin its publication in the Sunday Sentinel, and its opening chapters will commence with our issue of next week-May 31. Mr. Conway will be remembered by our readers as the author of "Called Back" and "Dark Days."

A DECORATION DAY STORY.

On next Sunday, May 31, we shall present our readers with a most charming Decoration Day story, written specially for the Sunday Sentinel, and entitled, "The Two Old Ladies; or Who Found Uncle Jack." The writer, Mrs. Abby D. Hawkins, of Brazil, Ind., is widely and popularly known as the author of numerous interesting short stories and of a novel, "Hannah," published some years ago, illustrative of the benevolent purposes of Odd Fellowship.

The revelations made from time to time regarding the Republican management of the Naval Department are infamous and di-graceful.

AMALGAMATION. It is announced that the colored people of the city will hold a public meeting for the purpose of denouncing the law prohibiting white and colored persons from intermarrying. It is said that this 'aw is a relic of slavery days, and is a discrimina on against the colored race. The statute is as follows: No person having one-eighth part or more of negro blood shall be permitted to marry any white woman of this State; nor shall any white man be permitted to marry any negro woman or any woman having one-eighth part or more of negro blood. And every person who shall know-ingly marry in violation of the provisions of this section, on conviction thereof, be fined, etc.

Another section makes it a crime for any person to counsel or assist in such inhibited marriage between the races. It appears, then, from the statute itself, that it is no more discrimination against the negro than it is against the Caucasian race. The punishment for an infraction of the law is visited equally on white and black. If the intermanying of the two races is not a desirable thing for the interests of the State and society, it ought to be prohibited by law, for while it is argued that natural tastes would be a spfficient barrier, the frequent prosecutions under the law show that there is a nencessity for the statute. Amalgamation has always been condemned by thinking men. The result of it, a mongrel race, is certainly a condition to be deplored. While a statute inhibiting amalgamation will not prevent it altogether, just as a statute against burglary will not eradicate burgling, yet the presence of such a law on the books tends to materially reduce the extent of it.

It is but a narrow-minded view of this law that it is the outgrowth of slavery times, of race prejudice, or of the cry of Democratic maidens, "White husbands or none." The idea of matrimonial alliances between whites and blacks is repugnant to intelligent people of either race. The result on the social life of each party to such union is that the white woman who marries a colored man is ostracised from white society, and she is likewise refused admission to the social circles of the negroes. The same thing is true of the colored man who marries a white woman or a white man who takes a colored wife. The teachings and instincts of both races oppose such a state of affairs, and those going counter thereto become social outcasts. The offspring of such a marriage is also subject to like indignity, and finds itself without a race. A representative colored man of the city rays: "My wife is a colored woman. I have no desire to marry a white woman. But there must be no special laws against us on secount of our color. This last badge of caste and slavery must be wiped out." This is a gross misapprehension of the spirit of the law and is a conclusion evidently arrived at without knowledge of its provisions. There is such a statute in nearly every State, and there would undoubledly be if there never had been such an institution as slavery. Marrying is not a "mere matter of taste," and there is no more reason why the State should not legislate on the subject of amalgamation money to this office without giving their present and future welfare of its citizens. If amalgamation be an evit and an undesirable state of affairs, as on all hands it is conceded to be, why should it not be prevented by law? That the State has a right to legislate concerning such matters is unquestioned. The statute under consideration finds the strong est support in reason, and is a wholesome law.

DOUGLASS AND CHURCH. The Fred Douglass Sunderland church row has had another siring, and a very foolish affair it seems all around. A correspondent says that much has been said and written about Douglass attending Dr. Sunderland's church, and it seems that he went again last Sunday, and, according to the World correspondent, shocked the regular attendants at the church, who took no pains to conceal their indignation. This is all stuff. In the first place, Dr. Sunderland has devoted the best years and opportunities of his life in teaching the political and social equality of the negro race, and it is known that his congregation, or the best part of it, at least, sym. pathize with the views of their pastor. In the second place, it is not at all likely that a good Obristian would show displeasure of the attendance at the house of God of any persons, no matter of what race or solor, if they conducted themselves like decent folks. The charge that Douglass attends Dr. Sunderland's church to show disrespect to the President, because the latter has rented a pew there, is absurd. Douglass doubtless never thought of such a thing, and if he did, he is a very foolish old man. The President allowed his sister to rent a pew in any WE trust that the Logan boom will not | church she pleased, and she selected one in self to do as he pleases. For the last four Sundays he has disappointed quite a number of stupid, curious people who have gone to Dr. Sunderland's church, as he was not present. Fred Douglass should go to church frequently if it will eradicate some of his cranky potions. It was only a few weeks ago that he advised the colored race to use dynamite if they were not allowed the right sort of accommodations on railroad trains. To be sure he modified the advice somewhat by saying that it was not exactly the correct thing to do, but -. Fred is a bad adviser. He should go to church frequently, where the pure gospel is preached.

Netwithstading the claim that the old clerks in the Departments at Washington were thoroughly reliable, yet every now and then there comes to us something like this; "Complaints are heard here that the influence of Frank Hatton is still strong in the Postoffice Department, particularly in the First Assistant Postmaster General's o'fice. It is asserted that a man now in the office, and holding a $1,400 clerkship, was taken from a $1,000 place by Hatton, twice promotei, and all because Hatton found him to be a skillfut barber and had him at his house every morning to shave, thampoo and make him beautiful. General Vilas may not regard this service as offensive partisanship, but it may turn out to be cause for a change. In July, 1883, Mr. Hatten committed an act of gross injustice when he reduced a clerk named Von Baetz two grades and put in his place a relative who could not perform the duties of the man reduced. He refused to regard the protests made against this change for the benefit of several connections, and the injury has never been repaired. General Vilas' attention has now been directed to the matter, and it is not unlikely that he will restore Mr. Von Baetz to the position which he had reached by faithful labor and slow promotion."

SPEAKER CARLISLE WAS interviewed at his home in Covington very recently, and said: The President is a sensible, honest and patriotic man, whose highest ampition is to discharge his official duties in strict accordance with the Constitution and laws, and for the promotion of the public welfare. He is careful and conscientious about everything he undertakes, and if he commits any mistakes in making appointments or otherwise they will, in my opinion, be due to the fact that he is not able in every instance to procure correct information concerning the matters upon which he is compelled to act. He works hard, listens patiently to the statements and the suggestions of others, and then he decides according to his own judgment as to what is right and proper under all the circumstances."

WHITELAW REID, of the New York Tribune, happened in Chicago the other day at the same time with John A. Logan, and he called to see him. The Tribune has abused Logan worse than his worst enemies ever did. Reid is the gentleman who called Logan a "po" Litical burglar" only four years ago, and who only ten years ago, relieved his oratory, stig matizing him as a "trick mule," a "spavined nightmere," an "injun" and a "vision of mustaches, eyebrows and hair." On one occasion Reid thus alluded to Logan:

Ah! Logan is a great man-a statesman. When be throws his intellect into a question something has got to come. And you may always know where to flud him-to-wit: where he has always been, drawing pay from the Government in some capacity. He lacks only fifteen or twenty things of being an orator. He has lungs.

We suppose now that Logan is the nomince of the New York Tribune for the next Presidency.

GEN. M. D. MANSON, first Vice President of the National Association Mexican War Veterans, and Major McFaddin, of Logansport, Marshal of the same, have just returned from the eleventh reunion of the Ohio State Assoclation of the Mexican War Veterans. The reunion was held at Sandusky, May 27. These gentlemen were the only representatives from Indiana. They report a pleasant time and a warm welcome. Our informant states that General Manson delivered an address that made quite a hit, and was enthusiastically received by the convention. Major McFaddin acted as Marshal, and also addressed the Ohio veterans. The reunion was a decided success. The National Association will meet in this city in September.

HERE it is in another shape. The Courier-Journal serves it up in this way, without any sugar: "The Republican editors must take the people for a pack of fools. They, the editors, are parading the balance of the Treasury books as an evidence of Republican honesty in office, as if an organized body of public robbers could not carry on their work of piliage without making a record of their crime. The books are all right; not to them need we look for evidences of theft. The rogues got in their work on legislative appropriations and on fraudulent contracts. The Robesons and the Roaches could tell where the millions went which stand on the books for 'war ships' and 'repairs' and other well planned jobberies for beating the people with their own money."

WE have received a very neat looking periodical called the Southern Bivouac. It is the June number. Since it was purchased by Avery & Sons, General Basil Duke and Mr. Richard W. Knott have been made editors, and it is their intention to make the Bivouse a first class literary and historical magazine. It fills a valuable space amidst the literature of the war, and its pages contain a great deal that is interesting to the soldier, the historian and the general reader. The chief feature of the present number is an article by Major D. W. Sanders on the Battle of Franklin, and a paper by Judge Thomas H. Hines on General Morgan's escape. The magezine is destined to enjoy a wide patron age North as well as South.

CHARLES L. WEBSTER, who is to publish General Grant's book, has the draft of the terms of the surrender at Appomattox Courthouse carefully preserved in a glass case like | the first to telegraph congratulations to her yellowish paper covered with Grant's writing, and showing but few corrections. Sunk in the frame is the gold pen with which the document was written, and its holder. The only signature is that of Grant, although it has been the prevailing impression that General Lee also signed the agreement.

THE United States never had a President who, in so short a time, dropped completely out of the minds of our people as has Rutherford B. Hayes. His name is scarcely ever mentioned, even among the most partitan Republicans .- Marion Democrat.

THE circular of Postmaster General Vilas has produced a healthy scare in the Republican camp. There is a good many postofficial changes. The Republican organs are resolving indignantly against a Democrat c administration putting in Democratic Postmasters. - Wabash Times.

REPUBLICAN journals are doing a good deal of crowing over the count of the money in the Treasury vaults. "Not a cent was missing," they say. The forgot that the stealing was done before it reached the vaults. Millions were taken from the pockets of the people that never reached the Treasury, through whisky rings, Star-route gangs, navy frauds and Credit Mobilier syndicates. - Bluffton

An exchange calls attention to the very pertinet fact that according to Republican arguments, last year, a Democratic success was to overwhelm business all over the country, but it was expected to prove especially disastrous to the local interests of the capi tal city. Grass was to grow in the streets of Washington, hotels and boarding house were to languish, and the gloomy legend of "this place to let" was to stare from long rows of handsome dwellings in the most popular portion of the city. As a matter of fact, however, these misfortunes have not made their appearance, nor is there any immediate prospect that they will. On the contrary, business in the district is better than it has been in a long time. More buildings are going up this spring than in any previous year, and the future of the city never looked brighter. The prospects for a general revival of business in all parts of the country are far better than at any time since Garfield was elected, which but shows the unsoundness of Republican campaign logic .- Winchester Democrat.

Ir will be many a day before the Democrats of the country will forgive the careless indifference and stupidity of their party associates in Illinois, in allowing the Republicans to elect a member of the Legislature from a Democratic district. Especially are are the Illinois Democrats to be censured because there was so much depending upon the election. The party lost a United States Senator simply because of its members being too lazy and careless to give the matter attention at the proper time. The Democrats of Illinois deserve no sympathy in the matter, but it is galling to think the party lost so important election on account of the stupidity of the Democrats in a single district of the great State of Illinois. We will have to grin and bear it, but the Damocrats of the district which was allowed to elect a Republican legislator ought to be punished by keeping Republicans in all of the postoffices of the district and see how they like it, -Fort Wayne Journal.

AN ENGLISH WOMAN

Commits Forgery and Robbery for the Purpose of Being Arrested and Obtaining Food and Shelter.

St. Louis, May 28.—At a late hour last night a young woman giving the name of Flora Downs broke the show window of John Ballard's jewelry store and abstracted several articles or silverware therefrom. She made no effort to e-cape, and was immediately arrested and taken to the Central Police Station, where she told a pitiful story ct want and desperation. She said she was an English woman, from Bristol, was a newspaper writer and had worked both in Eug-land and Canada. She came from Toronto to Chicago a short time ago, but not getting employment in the latter place she came here a week ago She was no more successfol here, and having exhausted her means she had become desperate and determined to commit a crime so that she mingt be arrested, and thus obtain shelter and food. She first attempted forgery by signing the name of a prominent broker here to a check and presenting it to a bank, but this did not result in her arrest. She then wandered about the streets and just before midnight, determined to commit robbery, did the act above mentioned. She says she wants to go to the penitentiary, where she will obtain rest and care, and her mind seems to have become morbidly fixed upon this idea. She was lodged in jail to day under a warrant charging her with larceny. She talks rationally, and is evidently s woman of education and culture, but the detectives who have talked with her think her mind is unbalanced, and think she ought to go to an asylum. She is known to have visited all the newspaper offices here during the past week and applied for work, and there does not seeem to be any doubt that the most, if not all, her statements are true.
